To Whom It May Concern

This letter serves as verification that Jeremiah (Jeremy) Dodd completed a field-based internship for the Teach Arizona master's degree program from August 2013 through March 2014. This equates to 26 weeks of half-day internship or 520 hours.

Jeremy engaged in activities typically performed by secondary classroom teachers. These activities included but were not limited to planning for and delivering instruction, managing student behavior, assessing student learning, accommodating students with special learning needs, collaborating with faculty and staff at the school site and communicating with parents.

Jeremy gradually assumed these assigned tasks over the course of the fall semester (August through December) under the supervision of a certified classroom teacher and a university supervisor. During the three months of internship spring semester (January through March), Jeremy took lead, working more independently on the assigned tasks.

Sincerely,

W. Barry Roth Ed.D.
