LEVANTAMIENTO DE LOS ÍNDICES AÉDICOS

EL DENGUE

El DENGUE es una enfermedad viral, sistémica y dinámica, de carácter endémico – epidémico, transmitida por mosquitos del género Aedes, principalmente Aedes aegypti, que es una especie tropical y subtropical. Es una enfermedad de rápida propagación en la región de las Américas y en el planeta, constituye hoy la arbovirosis más importante transmitida por artrópodos a nivel mundial, en términos de morbilidad, mortalidad e impacto económico.

El agente etiológico de la fiebre del dengue es un virus de ARN del género Flavivirus, de la familia Flaviviridae, que posee cinco serotipos conocidos de los cuales cuatro circulan en las Américas: DENV1, DENV2, DENV3, DENV4 y DENV5.

La triada ecológica para que se desarrolle la enfermedad requiere de un entorno en el cual se encuentre presente el virus, el vector y el huésped.

Cabe señalar que el proceso de infección inicia con el ingreso del virus por la picadura de un mosquito, el cual es incubado en el huésped entre 1 a 12 días, seguido por la aparición síntomas y cinco días después un aumento de la viremia en el huésped, que a su vez puede ser picado por el mosquito que se infecta e inicia nuevamente el ciclo de transmisión. Por lo anterior, se entiende que el reservorio del virus es el ser humano, que a la vez que mantiene la infección adquiere la inmunidad necesaria para proteger al huésped en futuras infecciones. Sin embargo, cabe señalar que solamente que la inmunidad es protectora para serotipo adquirido en la infección, por lo que es una enfermedad que se puede establecer en diferentes puntos de la vida y depende de los serotipos de infección.

INSPECCIÓN, VIGILANCIA Y CONTROL

La inspección, vigilancia y control es de responsabilidad estatal y ciudadana para proteger la salud individual y colectiva, mediante la minimización de riesgos, daños e impactos negativos para la salud humana por el uso de consumo de bienes y servicios, en establecimientos de interés en salud pública, a través de la verificación, la asesoría y la asistencia técnica del cumplimiento normativo, en aspectos relacionados con condiciones sanitarias: infraestructura, agua y saneamiento básico, control de calidad, procesos y procedimientos, cualificación del talento humano y monitoreo de los efectos en salud.

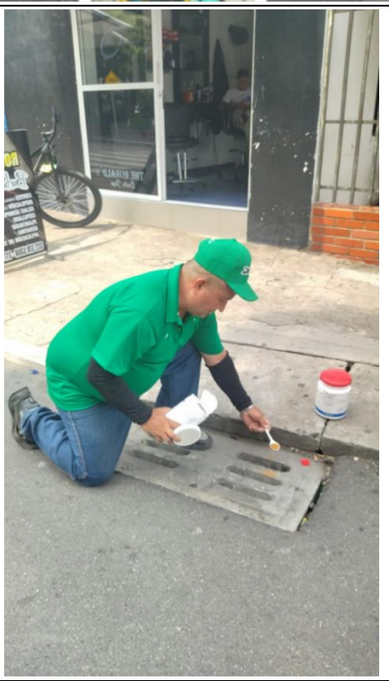

En el caso del DENGUE se debe mitigar el riesgo a través del control del vector como los es el mosquito Aedes aegypti, para lo cual la secretaria de salud ha desplegado diferentes acciones entre las cuales se encuentra los barridos sanitarios y la orientación del correcto lavado y cepillado de tanques o pilas.

Por lo que en se han desarrollado barridos sanitarios, en los siguientes barrios del municipio de Girón:
