Building a Peaceful School

Peace is not only the absence of war. In our school, students learn to build peace every day. Last year, we started a special project to help everyone feel happy and safe. We talk about our feelings in the morning before classes start. When two students have a problem, they sit in a quiet place called the Peace Corner to talk. They listen to each other and find a solution together without fighting.

Our teachers say that small actions are very important for the community. For example, helping a classmate with homework or sharing a snack creates a good environment. We also have a garden where we plant flowers together. Working in the garden helps us relax and be patient with our friends. We believe that peace begins with a simple smile and a kind word.

Everyone in the community participates in this project. Parents and neighbors come to our school once a month to talk about respect. We share stories and play traditional games. This project makes our neighborhood a better place to live because we learn to respect our differences and help each other.

21. Where do students go to solve their problems together?

- A. In the Peace Corner.
- B. In the cafeteria.
- C. In the garden.

22. When do the students talk about how they feel?

- A. At night.
- B. In the morning.

- C. After school.

23. According to teachers, what action helps create a good environment?

- A. Sharing a snack.
- B. Playing video games.
- C. Leaving school early.

24. How often do neighbors and parents visit the school to talk?

- A. Every week.
- B. Once a month.
- C. Once a year.

25. Which activity helps students become more patient with others?

- A. Drawing murals.
- B. Sharing a snack.
- C. Working in the garden.
