GARAVATO

ILLUSTRATION / URBAN ART / PRINTMAKER

GARAVATO

Tavo, artistically known as Garavato, is a prominent Colombian illustrator and urban artist based in Bogotá. With 18 years of experience, he has successfully merged his passions for music and activism, establishing his own design studio in 2013 and co-founding the print workshop Editor Felino in 2021, where he specializes in screen printing and linocut.

A pioneer in gig poster art in Colombia, his work has been internationally recognized, collaborating with well-known brands such as Dr. Martens, Wacom, Levi's, Grolsch, Virgin Mobile, Rolling Stone Magazine, and Gibson.

His focus on self-management in poster art, under the premise "Do It Yourself," allows him to experiment and support social causes, working with foundations that assist victims of armed conflict in his country. This has led him to exhibit in several countries and for his works to be part of important collections, including museums in Bogotá, Mexico City and Hamburg.
